NUMBER 19

WEDDING BELLS.

Mr. E. B. Barger and Miss Myrtle Myers United in the Presence of Many Friends.

LEFT FOR HOT SPRINGS, ARKANSAS.

Our little city was astir between eight and nine o'clock last Wednesday morning. It seemed that everybody was going the same way. Every one looked happy. Following the throng one found himself inside the spacious home of W. R. Myers. It was the wedding morn of Miss Myrtle Myers, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Myers. The guests were happy in their salutations one with another, and little quiet chats concerning the approaching nuptials, the popularity of the two who had chosen this day to begin life's journey together.

The large reception hall, and parlor and dining room were thrown into one great salon. The decorations carried out the color scheme, white and blue, each room draped with dainty festoons, culminating in the wedding bell hanging in the arch of the alcove where the bridal group were to stand. Other decorations were ferns and holly and potted plants with a Virginia Creeper clinging to the balusters of the beautiful winding stairway.

The house was softly lighted with numbers of blue and white tapers.

At the stroke of half past nine, Miss Alice Walker, pianist, opened a beautiful musical program with "Traumerei," by Schumann. Prof. Farris then sang "My Rosary" in his usual effective style. Then the first notes of Mendelssohn's wedding march was heard, and with that the little winsome ribbon bearers, Mary Lucile Winfrey, fairy-like in a light blue silk mob trimmed with lace, and Master Robert Page Myers, "to the manor born," in a white suit, made the way down the stairs, through the hall to the alcove for the bridal party. These little tots were followed by Rev. Z. T. Williams. The groom, Mr. Eros B. Barger, followed with his best man, Mr. Fred Hill. A handsomer, manlier pair could hardly be found than these young men in their conventional morning wedding suits.

The maid of honor, Miss Lelia Rogers, of Dickson, Tenn., cousin of the bride, beautiful in her gown of light blue crepe de chine and chiffon and rosebuds with a touch of pink, and carrying a shower bouquet of Bridesmaid roses, followed, and the group waited for the bride, who soon followed upon the arm of her eldest brother, Mr. Al Meyers, of Monticello Ky., who "gave the bride away." Never did the bride appear more charming, more beautiful than when she stood so modestly plighting her vows in the presence of God and men. She was gown in chiffon over white satin trimmed with fringe and real lace. Her beauty and grace were enhanced by the veil of tulle fastened with lilies of the valley. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses.

The ring ceremony was performed by the pastor of these two, who is also cousin of the groom, Rev. Z. T. Williams, in a reverent, beautiful manner.

Miss Walker accompanied, in soft strains, the ceremony with one of Wagner's compositions "O Thou Sublime Sweet Evening Star!"

After the prayer the bridal party retired to the reception room.

There were many beautiful and costly presents of hand painted china, vases pictures, pieces of cut glass and crystal, many fine designs in silver and a linen shower by a host of friends.

Miss Grace Conover was registrar, keeping the record of more than one hundred and twenty-five guests.

The ushers were Miss Mary Myers, sister of the bride, and Miss Brownie Leachman, of Greensburg, Ky., and Miss Willie May Miller, of Louisville, Ky. and Mrs. Al Myers of Monticello, Ky.

Miss Leachman was charming in pink silk with rosebud trimmings, and Miss Miller, the fairest of the fair, in a blue silk with fringe.

The scene was made brilliant by the electric lights which were turned on just as the ceremony began. An unusual luxury for our little city in the morning time.

At eleven o'clock the happy two started away for Hot Springs, Ark., where Mr. Barger meets the rest of the Brooklyn team for base-ball.

Mr. and Mrs. Eros Barger are exceptionally popular young people, and are well-beloved, and they left amid the heartiest congratulations of many friends and showers of rice. Blessing be upon them until they shall return to us after a few months at most.

A guest.

Death at Greensburg.

Mr. E. B. Leachman, who was known to a great many Columbians, who was a prominent citizen of Green county died in the suburbs of Greensburg last Saturday morning. He had been in declining health for several months, but his death was sudden and a shock to the whole community. He had one daughter, Miss Leontine, in the Lindsey-Wilson, and his daughter, Miss Brownie Leachman, was visiting here when her father was taken seriously ill. The two daughters were notified, and they left for his bedside at once, but the end came before they reached home. Everybody here is in sympathy with the surviving members of the family, especially with the two daughters, who are great favorites here.

The deceased was a gentleman of high character, prominent in the affairs of Green county, and his passing has made the world poorer, bringing heartfelt sorrow to a loving wife, devoted children and to many friends. May that peace that passeth all understanding bind up their wounded hearts, is the wish of this paper.

Will Remain in Sturgis.

It has been rumored of late that there was a probability that the Rev. J. F. Claycomb, pastor of the First Presbyterian church would leave here at the end of his first year's pastorate but it will be gratifying to his many friends to know that this probably has been removed. The church has done the handsome thing in raising his salary $200 per year and in many other ways assuring him of their appreciation of the great work he is doing.

His friends and admirers in Sturgis are measured only by the number of people who know him regardless of the church affiliations. Pleasing in manner, forceful in the pulpit, broad in christian sympathy. He is doing much for Sturgis, not only in his own church but his influence for good, permeates the entire community.—Sturgis Democrat.

Rev. D. H. Howerton returned Thursday evening from Louisville where he attended the "Mid-winter School of Methods" for Sunday school workers, and the Sunday school lectures delivered before the faculty and students of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary by Dr. R. W. Weaver, of Nashville, Tenn. There were enrolled in the school of Methods 302 and the lectures delivered were of a high order. Every Sunday school worker who can do so should plan to attend next year.

Public Sale.

On Tuesday, March the 12th, 1912, we will sell at Public auction our farm containing 130 Acres, located 1 1/2 miles South of Burdick, KY. Good buildings, plenty of running water. Will sell on easy terms. Also stock, farm machinery, hay and corn. A. W. & I. N. Miller.

To a Roosevelt Man.

The following lines were received by Mr. J. H. Judd, of this place, a former Deputy Collector, from Mr. Jo Craft, who was collector of the Fifth Kentucky district under Roosevelt:

Two years have slowly passed by
Since Petty ousted you and I
From seats where both, with eager eye,
Did monthly cut the Federal pie.
My troubled bosom heaves a sigh
At thoughts of Bourbon and old Rye,
We got so free, and drunk so sly,
And will again, (this is no lie),
When Teddy swings his stick on high,
And knocks "Old Bradley" to the sky.

ETHEL SUTZER

Who Was the Beloved Wife of Rev. J. W. Weldon, Died in this Place Last Thursday at 12:30 O'clock.

REMAINS CARRIED TO HARDIN COUNTY

The residents of Columbia were shocked and the deepest sadness spread over the entire community last Thursday, just after the noon hour, when it became known that the subject of this writing was dead, the end having come at 12:30 o'clock, p. m.

About ten days before the messenger came Mrs. Weldon became the mother of a girl baby. It was most generally believed that she was doing nicely until the first of last week, and on Tuesday her condition became alarming, and Wednesday night physicians and friends gave up all hope. She died happily in the presence of her father and mother, husband and a number of friends.

The deceased' maiden name was Ethel Sutzer and she was born and reared at Stephensburg, Hardin county, ten miles from Elizabethtown. In September, 1910, she was happily married to Rev. J. W. Weldon, and a short time after marriage she and her husband went to Montana, where the latter had charge of a Church for one year. In 1911 Rev. Weldon was transferred to the Louisville Conference, and last September he was assigned to the Church at this place. His work here has been crowned with success, more than sixty additions to the congregation in the short time he has been the pastor.

The most trying hour, however, of his life has come, the removal of his young wife by death. She was a lady of most excellent christian character, gentle in manners and most lovable in disposition, and her taking was distressing to her many lady friends of Columbia who had learned, in a short time to love her and who delighted to be in her company.

There is the tenderest sympathy felt here for the husband, the father, mother and all other relatives.

The little babe that came to bless the home, will never know a mother's love, but if it survives it can be taught the many christian virtues possessed by the departed parent, and when its spirit takes its flight, it will know the mother in the celestial city beyond the skies.

Funeral services were held in the Methodist church Friday morning at 8 o'clock, conducted by Rev. W. F. Hogart, assisted by all the local pastors and at the close the family started with the remains to Hardin county. The church was filled beyond its seating capacity with sympathizing friends. There were many floral designs.

Not in the Race.

All know this third term bugaboo is false upon its face, Since we so often have declined To make another race.

By holding with both hare and hounds We'd have a lively chase; But then, you know we've said before, That we're not in the race. To tell of all our wire works We've neither time nor space; O! How we'd work the rabbit's foot If we were in the race.

We'd dazzle 'em; we'd frazzle 'em, Beat or break a trace, Now would it not be awful nice If we were in the race?

A winner should go all the gaits— Rack, singlefoot and pace, We would surely win the prize Though we're not in the race.

Were we both Priest and potentate, There'd be a reign of grace, With righteousness in all the land, Still, we're not in the race.

LATER.

Why longer kick against the pricks? For it's a groundhog case; So don't forget to tell the boys By George, I'm in the race.

Lost Their Child.

Mr. J. E. Coffey, who was returning from Larue county, last Thursday, reports the following unusual incident. At Campbellsville he met Mr. James Burton and family who were returning to Adair county, having been living in Kansas. When the hack drove up, for this place, Mr. Burton and family and Mr. Coffey got in and the start was made. When the toll gate was reached Mrs. Burton concluded to count her children, and in doing so one was found missing. The hack was stopped and Mr. Burton returned to Campbellsville on the hunt of the lost child, a boy about ten years old. He was found sitting at the depot. The trip was hurriedly made back to the hack, the family making it to Columbia without further loss. There were six children in all.

SALT FOR SALE.

I have an honest 7 bushel barrel salt, which cost only 15 cents more than the 5 1/2 bushel barrel which you buy elsewhere. 33-3t Sam Lewis.

Mrs. Lou W. Atkins, the well-known milliner, will be in her place of business over Marvin Young's store by the first of April. She is now in the Southern markets, and will stop in Louisville, en route home. She will have a most attractive line, everything up-to-date, and she asks her friends to wait for her coming.

Sylvester Burton, who was reared in the White Oak country, died in Lakeland Asylum last Wednesday afternoon. He was about forty five years old. He was sent to Lakeland twice, the last time about three years ago.

Sheriff A. D. Patteson, returned from Illinois Wednesday night with George Acre, charged with felony and who left this county after being indicted.

Jack For Sale.

I have a well-bred jack, color blue, mealy nose, which I will sell at a bargain. G. W. Helm, Montpelier, Ky.

The farmers of Adair county are longing for some settled weather. It is now time to turn corn ground and gardens should be plowed and some seed put in.

In the second game of basket ball, between the Lindsey-Wilson school and the Public school, reported last week, the statement was made that the score stood 13 to 6 in favor of L. W. T. S., when it should have been ten to 9.

That Compulsory Law Once More.

Editor News:

I feel myself very much encouraged. I feel that I am about to succeed in an undertaking that I have been hammering at for a number of years. I have for five or six years been trying to get some body to say something about compulsory school education. In this I am now about to succeed. The Adair County News has spoken. Robert Lee Campbell, the poet lawyerate, has spoken, and a correspondent of the News has also spoken. The two first named are "agin" me, but the last is on my side. I am not caring which side they are on, if they will only speak right out in meetin. I have been trying for several years to get up a public sentiment on this, what I believe to be an important subject. Mr. Harris, in the News, comes square out against my proposition, and Mr. Campbell endorses him with a hurrah. Mr. Harris has two objections to a compulsory school law. The first is that it is wrong in principle. If it is wrong in principle to make parents do what they ought to do without making, it is manifestly wrong to make them pay the tax levied for common school purposes. And if wrong to make them pay the school tax, it is wrong to make them pay any tax at all. Taxes are levied for the purpose of running the government, and governments are run for the protection of the people. If parents will not send their children to school, we will soon have a population of ignorant and unlettered people, and Kentucky will stand lower than she stands now in the scale of education, among the States and territories of our country. She cannot get much lower, for she is nearly at the bottom. Mr. Harris' other objection that the law cannot be enforced, I think is untrue. In countries where it has been tried, it has been a success.

In Germany where they have had a compulsory school law for a number of years. I understand they have made it a success. That country stands high in the scale of education, and no young people are found there unable to read and write. We have no difficulty in enforcing the collection of taxes. We have but little difficulty in compelling men to work the roads. In times of war, we have no difficulty in compelling men to go to the front to repel invasion, or put down insurrection. All these laws can be enforced, and why not a compulsory school law? The people of this graded school district a few years ago, voted a heavy school tax to carry on a graded school in this town, and we hear of no great difficulty in collecting this tax. Some of our citizens were kicking terribly about the tax, but they don't refuse to pay it. If they should be compelled to pay the tax and send their children to it, I think they would submit to it so I think that the objection that such a law as I propose could not be enforced, is not well founded.

Mr. Harris says they have a law in Virginia that works well. It is a law founded on the grades of the teachers, but I think that if Mr. Harris has much confidence in such a law, he would long since have been recommending it to his adopted State. I think the law he proposes would be all right, if the children would attend school under it. I am liberal enough to be satisfied with any law that will bring the children to the schools, but will this do it?

Mr. Campbell bases his opposition on the declaration of Independence, which says that all men are created free and equal. I can't see what that has to do with a compulsory school law that would not equally apply to all laws whatsoever. He says he is opposed to all compulsory laws. All laws are intended to be compulsory. Thou shalt, and thou shalt not, form the sum and substance of all laws. Laws that prohibit are as much compulsory as any other kind. He has been a school teacher for quite a number of years, and he says that 50 per cent. of the teachers, including himself, do not do their duty. If that be so, I think a little compulsion along that line might work well. He is very much in favor of Mr. Harris' plan, but thinks that 50 per cent. of the teachers would oppose it, but that all good and loyal teachers would vote for it. I don't know what he means by good and loyal teachers. Does he mean the 50 per cent that do not do their duty, including himself? Does he mean the 50 per cent of the teachers, including himself, who would rather teach 4 or 5 pupils than 60 or 70? Now here are the facts in the case. In our county we have about 5,400 children that ought to be in school. We have 2,400 actually in attendance. Those not in attendance are paid for at the same rate of those who are. Now I am proposing to make the parents of these absent children send them to the schools, and not have an ignorant set of young people growing up in our community without any education whatever. Mr. Campbell objects because all men are created free and equal. Now is this right? Is it treating the children right? How often do you hear uneducated men saying that their fathers ought to have sent them to school while they were young. If these gentlemen will go with me on my annual rounds in visiting the schools, and find 14 boys during a school day on Caseys Creek fishing, and then go with me to the neighborhood of Glenville, and find five boys belonging to one family, propped upon the sunny side of a little log cabin, within one-half mile of the district school, none of the boys able to read or write, they would become full fledged compulsionists in short order. The plan they propose as I said before, would be all right if it would work, but how long do they propose to try it before they would pronounce it a failure? The Courier Journal proposes to try moral suasion. To my certain knowledge that has been tried for fifty years, and the end is not yet. It looks like to me it would be bad to cut the pay of the teachers, with no better attendance than heretofore. I have no doubt the teachers could increase the attendance, if they would devote much of their time to drumming, but would it not be at the expense of the children that are anxious to learn? But perhaps I have said enough. I would be glad if these gentlemen would keep up the fight, until the whole country would get alive with the subject. U. L. Taylor.

Glorious News.

Comes from Dr. J. T. Curtiss, Dwight, Kan. He writes: "I not only have cured bad cases of eczema in my patients with Electric Bitters, but also cured myself by them of the same disease. I feel sure they will benefit any case of eczema." This shows what thousands have proved, that Electric Bitters is a most effective blood purifier. Its an excellent remedy for eczema, tetter, salt rheum, ulcers, boils and running sores. It stimulates liver, kidneys and bowels, expels poison, helps digestion, builds up the strength. Price 50 cts. Satisfaction guaranteed by Paull Drug Co.

The highways throughout the county continue to be almost impassable. Next month the fiscal court will meet and it is hoped that action will be taken looking to bettering the roads in Adair county. Teams that could usually pull two thousand or twenty-five hundred pounds can scarcely move with eight or nine hundred under present conditions, and the latter weight pulls the horses harder than 2,500 would over good roads.

It Rests With The Governor.

In his message of congratulation to the Democratic majority, the Governor cites four platform pledges as redeemed—direct primaries, bank inspection, county unit and prison reform.

Concerning the two first mentioned, there can be no question that the Governor's praise is well bestowed. In the case of number three of the redeemed the General Assembly can with truth be said to have taken its medicine; that, in the majority of instances, it was taken with a wry face, is equally true. Whether the dose will prove as politically beneficial as hoped remains to be demonstrated. But in any event, the Governor is well within the mark in his declaration that the General Assembly, in these three matters, has done what it promised and set out to do.

However feature of the message which is of chief interest is that which has to do with the Governor's views on the subject of prison reform and his attitude toward the co-ordinate branches of the State government.

I preferred," says the Governor, that the prison reform bill should be bi-partisan * * * but when the legislative department, without being so requested by me, passed the prison reform bill without the bi-partisan feature * * * I believe it my duty to approve.

That the Governor should respect the co-ordinate branch of the State of government, was no more than was rightly expected. That he can fail to recognize that this act leaves him absolutely free to put into effect the bipartisan system which, at the beginning of the session he preferred, is not to be believed.

The Hamilton bill provides for the appointment of three Prison Commissioners. It in no wise limits the Governor's choice to members of any one political party.

The present prison law is, as the Governor truly says, an improvement over that which it replaces. It is for the Governor to make it conform fully to his own and the party's pledge to remove the prisons from politics by appointing a nonpolitical board.—Louisville Times.

A Stupendous Change In China.

The greatest single stride toward democracy taken since the United States of America threw off the yoke of monarchical oppression, unless France be an exception, is that which has erected a republic on the ruins of the Chinese empire. It is a tremendous event China has a population of 440,000,000—a greater population than the entire British empire. Its area is nearly 500,000 square miles greater than that of the United States and all its insular possessions. The greater mass of its people are in utter ignorance, knowing nothing of the science or principles of government, except to obey authority and pay taxes. There are, however, thousands of enlightened Chinese, entirely capable of self-government. They are led and advised by some of the ablest statesmen of the Orient, including Sun Yat Sen, Yuan Shih-kai and Wu Ting Tang.

Upon these modernized men and their followers depends the success of the Chinese republic. No one can prophesy what the outcome will be, not even those most familiar with oriental conditions. It is a Herculean undertaking to rescue China from the degradation of centuries of ignorant, oppressive rule, and do it peacefully. That it will be done in time no one doubts. The day is coming when China will take her place among the civilized nations as Japan has done. The change in form has taken place with startling suddenness. The change in substance is the thing of vital concern. The processes through which it is to be evolved are wholly problematical, but the world hopes it will be without bloodshed and that it will be accomplished wisely and justly.

Arcadia, Fla.

Dear Editor

Here we are from Arcadia, a beautiful little town down in the south west corner of Florida. It has a population of thirty-five hundred, two rail roads, several fruit packing houses, some of which are the largest in the state.

Arcadia is right in the center of the Orange and grape fruit section of the state.

It is also a fine trucking country potato, onions, cabbage, celery, beans and peas, are all a very profitable crops to raise.

Land sells here from $25 to $1000 per acre and some as high as fifteen hundred per acre. The $25 land is unimproved, covered with Palmetto and Yellow pines. The one thousand and the fifteen hundred dollar land is land that have nice large groves on them, groves that bring the owner something like a thousand dollars per acre each year for the time and labor he has spent to bring it to its present position. The climate is fine the temperature is about 75 here today, the sun shine is hot but there is a cool breeze from the west just fresh from the gulf that make it swell here.

There are beautiful flowers blooming every where and every thing is very much alive.

Orange trees are blooming, mulberries are ripening and weather is ideal. Well I will ring off, I have said enough if not to much already. From a native corn cracker,

Yours truly,
O. Wolford.

Passing of the Boston Bag.

One cannot but be impressed with the growing use in the Hub of the leather Gladstone bag in place of the green cloth bag which used to be so prevalent and serviceable to carry small things in, from shoestrings to volumes of Emerson and dictionaries, and which was and still is especially affected by men with spectacles and students at school. The green bag has indeed been a Boston institution and almost as famous as Boston baked beans, but seemingly it has its limitations in capacity. Knowledge has grown so, or at least its apparatus, that something larger and stronger is now required than the green bag, unless it is to have the dimensions of a mail sack, and so has come into vogue the Gladstone bag, which besides being larger is also much stronger, and then it has a handle. At the rate of increase scholastic impedimenta are found necessary to the highbrows as they journey about in pursuit or deposit of knowledge, presently a sort of literary motor cart will have to be devised for their special use.—Boston Advertiser.

Massenet and His Visitors.

The composer, M. Jules Massenet, has a beautiful estate at Egreville, and he does most of his work there, because in Paris he is rarely free from visitors. But Egreville is not so very far away from Paris, and occasionally his friends go out there and disturb Jules Massenet at his work. Massenet, however, never lets his friends disturb him very long. He has a neat way of suggesting their departure. He receives them cordially, and in answer to the inevitable phrase of admiration for his house and grounds he always says exactly the same thing. "Yes," says M. Massenet gently, "the principal charm of this place is that the railway communications are so bad. The only decent train to get you out here brings you here at 1 o'clock, and to get back to Paris with anything like comfort you will have to leave again at 2 o'clock."—Paris Letter.

Dei Gratia Off Canadian Coins.

The words "Dei gratia," the grace of God, have disappeared from the 1911 issue of Canadian coins, and just why this is so seems to be a matter of much mystery. As far as can be ascertained the royal mint in London is responsible for the change. Although the "Dei gratia" seems to have disappeared from the Canadian coinage, the new King George coins in Great Britain retain it. The King Edward coin bore the inscription "Edward VII. Dei Gratia Rex Imperator." The 1911 Canadian coins are stamped "Georgius V. Rex et Ind. Imp." There is no sign of the "Dei gratia." "We get new dies for all our coins every year, and the ones we received this year were lacking the 'Dei gratia,'" said Dr. Bonar, deputy master of the Canadian mint. "We get our dies from the other side, so the mint itself is not responsible for the change."—Ottawa Citizen.

Keeping It All Dark.

Many a theatrical manager, in search of more favorable conditions under which to produce startling stage effects, has wished that he could turn off every light beyond the footlights, leaving the audience and orchestra in total darkness. The great drawback to this has always been that the orchestra players need some light to see their music. A novel solution of this has been introduced in a London theater, where the orchestra players read music printed in white ink on black paper. In addition the musicians' electric light bulbs are fitted with special shades, which reflect little or no light beyond the black music sheets.

The white shirt fronts of the orchestra players are hidden by black bits, and baldheaded musicians have to wear black caps.

Stores Without Signs.

Five years ago a jewelry firm built a new store on Fifth avenue. No name was displayed, and the patrons wondered when one would appear. None did. Later a dry goods firm built a store near by, and it, too, put out no sign. Within a year another jewelry firm has followed suit, and so has an art dealer. All used to have signs on their stores when they occupied less pretentious quarters.

"I made some inquiry as to the occasion for this seeming modesty," said a curious observer, "and I was told that the signs were not left off through architectural scruples. The reason is really psychological. Patrons of great stores like to go to them as they do to private houses. They take a genuine pride in knowing who is indoors without being told."—New York Sun.

Naming Aeroplanes.

Suggestions are already beginning to pour into the navy department for the naming of aerial warships. Hornet, Wasp, Hawk and Vulture are the favorites, though Eagle, Swallow and Bee are close seconds in point of popularity. Of course the names will be of no use for years to come, or until the aeroplane has been sufficiently perfected to become of actual and not theoretical value. But they reflect the confidence of numerous persons in the ultimate development of the flying machine to a point where it will be of practical value as an instrument of destruction.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Velvet Street Dress.

The sketch shows a velvet suit with a faint self stripe and trimmings of satin. In beech brown it forms the most ideal and fashionable type of suit, especially when cut and fitted with perfection.

Evening Gowns.

Old gold is one of the favorite colors for evening.

Dresses of tulle and silk mull, with dowered borders, are charming for debutante frocks.

White tulle is used extensively for blouses, chemisettes and entire gowns. Many evening frocks of chiffon are trimmed with lace flounces and tiny sprays and knots of silk or velvet flowers.

Dressy frocks of satin show narrow pointed trains or square or rounded trains quite separate from the rest of the skirt.

Evening frocks of tulle or delicate lace—the flounces touched with crystal—are worn under extremely short chiffon tunics, edged with fringe.

MANY BUTTONS TRIM THE SEASON'S GOWNS

Of Odd Shapes and Are Often Used In Freakish Fashion.

Buttons for gowns, coats and suits form an important part of the well ordered toilet.

While in some instances buttons are used with profusion, they are placed in such a way as not to seem ornate. For instance, upon a handsome gown small buttons covered with the same fabric as the gown itself were set closely together from the shoulder seams on each side to the hem of the skirt in the back. Although many dozens were thus employed, the effect was one of simplicity.

A strange freak is that of using two kinds of buttons upon the same tailored suit. In most instances the buttons are dissimilar as to material and size. The utility buttons are small, and the larger ones are simply for ornament.

The use of wooden button molds is on the increase. Some are made in ovals, lozenge shape and even square as well as in the shape of a half bullet. It is the fad to cover these with handwork of some kind. Silk, satin or velvet is often used and is frequently embellished with silk embroidery or cording or metallic lace work.

An odd use for buttons has appeared in millinery, where—upon some of the most expensive of imported hats—a large button covered with Irish crochet in rainbow tints is seen as the center of a ribbon or chiffon flower of a modest shade.

The use of white pearl buttons upon dark serge or other mannish goods is an innovation of the French dressmakers. Not for use are these buttons, in most cases, but as trimming, set closely along the edge of revers or upon cuffs or flares. Even china buttons have thus been employed by some of the most original makers.

Small and large buttons, made of white cotton thread, closely crocheted, are now in fashion. They are placed on blouses, on one piece frocks, on top wraps, in every size.

Buttons to be fashionable should be either very large or very small.

Reversible Fabrics.

Reversible materials are much used for the long mantles which are so practical. The favorite colors are gold and white, gray and mauve, currant and red, blue and chamois, bottle green and peacock green, otter and rosewood, moss green and violet and black and light gray.

MALICIOUS FRUIT.

The Stings That Come With Careless Handling of Prickly Pears.

My first sad experience of the African prickly pear was gained on a visit to the market place of Algiers. The fruit was handed to us, politely peeled by the Arab dealer, and thus as we made acquaintance with its delightful coolness no suspicion of its evil qualities entered our minds.

A few days later, adding the excitement of a little trespassing to the more legitimate pleasures of a country ramble, we came upon a well laden group of prickly pear bushes and could not resist the temptation to help ourselves to some of the fruit. The result was woeful.

Concentrated essence of stinging nettle seemed all at once to be assailing hands, lips and tongue, and our skin wherever it had come in contact with the ill-natured fruit was covered with a thick crop of minute, bristly hairs, apparently growing from it and venomous and irritating to the last degree.

Our silk gloves, transformed suddenly into miniature robes of Nessus, had to be thrown away, perfectly unwearable, and the inadvertent use of our pocket handkerchiefs before we had fully realized the extent of our misfortune caused fresh agonies, in which nose as well as lips participated. For many a day did the retribution of that theft haunt us in the form of myriads of tiny stings.—Home Life on an Ostrich Farm.

FIRST AERIAL POST.

It Was Used in China, and a Wild Goose Was the Carrier.

The ancient records of China reveal the fact that our aerial post was forestalled some thousands of years ago, aptly enough by Celestial. It is true that the first postal air man was an aquatic fowl, and to this day the post in China is referred to as "the convenience of the wild goose," and pictures of that bird still appear on certain stamps.

The legend tells us that a Tartar chief was offensive to the Chinese emperor, who sent a special envoy to warn him. But the chief took the emperor's servant prisoner and made him shepherd to his flocks. In this condition of social degradation the unfortunate envoy languished for some years until one day he captured a wild goose and his mind was illumined by the bright idea of using it to carry news of his whereabouts to his friends.

With a letter secured to its leg, the Samaritan goose flew southward until, virtue meeting its customary reward, it was killed in the grounds of the palace by no less a personage than the emperor himself. The letter was read, and a punitive expedition rescued the captive and punished the rebel chief.—Pearson's Weekly.

Attractions of a Malay Hotel.

We are so accustomed to reading in the guidebooks that the local hotels are the best in the east that it is refreshing, says the Java Times, to come across a description of a hotel in the little town of Kuala Lumpur, in the Federated Malay States. Here are a few points which our hotel proprietors might notice: Bedrooms, 27 feet by 24 feet by 20 feet, each with two electric twenty-five candle power lamps, electric bell and electric fan; a bathroom 30 feet by 12 feet attached to each bedroom and fitted with tops, floored with colored tiles, walled with white Minton ditto; a long, continuous corridor 625 feet in length by 12 feet broad; each electric bell fitted with "return" ring, so that the visitor knows at once whether he is being attended to.—London Globe.

Watling's Island.

San Salvador is perhaps the most interesting historical point on the American side of the world, as it is the island upon which Columbus first landed. Yet it has lost its name. In view of the history not only of the Bahamas group, but of the American continents as well, it is far from surprising that the identity of the famous island should have been long lost or that the reidentification should have been delayed until the middle of the last century, when Captain Becher of the British navy by application of the description contained in Columbus' journal to the course from Gomera to the Bahamas determined clearly that Watling's island alone met all requirements of the case.—Argonaut.

Putting It Nicely.

There is a good deal in putting a thing nicely. A prisoner was being sentenced at the assizes the other day. "You have a pleasant home and a bright fireside with happy children sitting around it, haven't you?" said the judge.

"Yes, sir," said the prisoner, who thought he saw a way out of the difficulty.

"Well," said the judge, "if the happy children sit around the cheerful fireside until you return they will stay there just two months."—London Tit-Bits.

The Difference.

"I am told Homebody takes a great interest in his children."

"Yes, he does, but not a controlling interest."—Judge.

Man's life is in the impulse of elevation to something higher.—Jacobi.

VALUABLE CO-OPERATION.

A co-operative undertaking is being carried out by the Wisconsin experiment station and Ashland and Bayfield counties, in the northern part of the state, that is to be strongly commended from the standpoint of good sense and practical value. A quarter section of cut over land, most of it of the red clay type, was given jointly by the two counties for use as a branch experiment station. The state will equip and manage the farm, and a foreman from the college will be in charge. Any workers of the college who may require the red clay soil in their experiments will be assigned plots on the farm in question, which is located near Ashland Junction. In addition to the strictly experimental work, the crops will be so planned as to serve as a demonstration to nearby farmers. Meetings will be held each year when the crops are in the best condition for demonstration purposes. The superintendent and his assistants will be at the service of the farmers of the northern part of the state and help them in every way to improve farming conditions. The land comprising this farm is typical timberland, and the same problems will have to be worked out that the homesteader in the section would have on his hands.

DIRT AND DISEASE.

Many of the diseases that attack farm animals are traceable to germs that flourish and live from year to year in the litter in and about stables and pens, many of which are in a decidedly insanitary condition. Among the germ life flourishing under these conditions are likely to be those of tuberculosis, contagious abortion, naval disease, lumpy jaw, hog and calf cholera, while parasites that cause scab, mange and itch likewise flourish. Whereas stable is in such condition it should be given a thorough cleaning. This should include not only brushing down cobwebs and dust from ceiling and walls and a thorough cleaning of the partitions and floors, but when this has been done the interior should be given a coat of whitewash made by adding salt and three or four tablespoonfuls of carbolic acid to a considerable quantity of the lime wash. This should be kept stirred and may be applied with a broom or long handled brush, but the job is more easily and effectively done if one has a spray pump such as is used in orchard spraying operations. Applied in this manner the solution can be forced into every crack and crevice.

RATS IN THE JELLY.

A reader whose good wife's jelly cupboard has just about been cleaned out by rats asks the writer what he can do to get rid of the pests. Any person who has had experience in this matter knows that it is a good deal easier to tell how to do the job than it is to actually do it. However, there are several methods that have given good results. In the line of traps good results can be had with the cage trap, especially if the whole rat tribe in the immediate locality can be inveigled into it in a night or two. The spring or guillotine trap is one of the best we have tried and is the more effective if the bait used is tied to the tongue of the trap. There are several rat poisons on the market which do the business if used according to directions, while an excellent, slow working poison is made by mixing one part of barytes with eight or nine parts of cornmeal and adding enough wetting to give a stiff dough. Small quantities of this should be placed in the runways of the rats, out of reach of poultry or other creatures.

A COSTLY LESSON.

The writer has in mind a pretty level headed orchard owner who somehow got the idea that the chaps who are in charge of the horticultural work at his own and other state agricultural colleges were impractical and did not know what they were talking about when they laid much stress on the importance of a thorough spraying with arsenate of lead within ten days after the petals fall. This was in the season of 1910. Acting on his own belief in the matter, he delayed his first spraying for the codling moth until the little calyx cup was closed and the apples were about two-thirds of an inch through. The theory of the college men was amply justified in the fall, when this orchardist had no end of worms, which converted what would have been fancy box stuff into cheap stuff for a canning factory. It is needless to say that this experience was not repeated.

A WINNING COMBINATION.

A friend, a banker, living in a section where alfalfa and corn do well and silos have been built the past season for the first time states that some farmers of his section have some doubts whether the silo is advisable in case of the man who does not care to take up dairying, but does want to raise beef cattle. The writer would suggest that any doubts these farmers may have along this line be put aside, for if the extensive feeding experiments which have been conducted by many experiment stations make any point clear it is that the cheapest as well as the best beef in the world is produced in those sections where both corn and alfalfa can be grown and where the corn crop is put into the silo for safe keeping. It is our opinion that these fellows are in clover in very truth and the sooner they get those silos built the better it will be.

POEMS WE MISS.

Epics of the Great Events in Our National History.

We have many volumes of commemorative odes of quite respectable literary quality, but we look in vain for an epic of the war of the Revolution, which might fill each one of us with the heroic spirit and bind us all in that living union of great hearted humility which is the supreme national pride. We look in vain for an epic on the great civil war, with one of the greatest of all life's soldiers as its hero, nor do we find immortalized in Aeneids those wonderful expeditions across this continent—the travels of Lewis and Clark, the settlement of the forty-niners, the opening up of Alaska, the reclamation of the deserts and the founding of Texas. How otherwise than through poetry are our children to possess the beauty and the glory and the spiritual grandeur of the saga figures who founded this marvelous union of states, of those heroes who "highly resolved" and so highly achieved? It is true Walt Whitman chanted the song of democracy, but his chant is a magnificent prophecy of an ideal—it is an exhortation, not a poetic manifestation. The spirit that strove and is striving toward a realization of this democracy is best caught when exemplified in the lives and deeds of the men who lived and fought, who conquered and died fighting, moved by this spirit. This is the creative work of the poet we await.—Temple Scott in Forum.

CITIES HARD TO KILL.

What Rome, Paris, Constantinople and London Have Suffered.

It is a difficult thing to kill a city, and there are some well known places that have so much vitality that they will survive any number of disasters.

Take Rome as a first example. No fewer than ten times has she been swept by pestilence. She has been burned twice and starved out on six occasions. Seven times she has been besieged or bombarded. But she still flourishes. Perhaps that is why she is called the Eternal City.

Paris has had eight sieges, ten famines, two plagues and one fire which devastated it. We make no reference to the number of revolutions, as they are too numerous to mention. But Paris still flourishes.

Constantinople has been burned out nine times and has suffered from four plagues and five sieges. There are some people who think that many of the sultans have been as bad for the city as any pestilence. And yet she goes on.

Lastly there is the English metropolis. London began as a kind of mound in a swamp. In her early history she was sacked, burned and all her inhabitants butchered. She has been decimated by plague five times, exclusive of typhus, cholera and such maladies. She has been more or less burned seven times. She is thriving in spite of all.

Yet He Loved the Sea.

It is said that Bryan Waller Procter, known as Barry Cornwall, who wrote the well known poem—

"I'm on the sea! I'm on the sea!
I am where I would ever be!"

was the very worst of sailors. When we read that he was so seaisick that he could scarcely bear the sound of a human voice it becomes apparent that his wife's conduct during his affliction could scarcely have been reassuring. As he lay on the deck of a channel boat, covered with shawls and a tarpaulin, she had the pleasing habit of humming a strain of his jovial sea song. The poet who loved the sea, but loved it best at a distance, had very little life just then, but what force he had was used in the entreaty:

"Don't, my dear! Oh, don't!"

Yet no doubt he loved the sea.

Origin of Panic.

No word has moved with the times more than "panic." Long ago in an ancient Greece it was a mild fear inspired by mysterious sights and sounds among the mountains and valleys by night, which were attributed to the god Pan. Nowadays it has a by no means supernatural significance on the stock exchange. "Panic fear" was the original expression, and in shortening it to "panic" we have all really been as slipshod as the small boy who calls his "comic paper" a "comic." Shaftesbury 200 years ago would have used the word for any contagious feeling that seized upon masses of men. "There are many Panicks in Mankind besides merely that of Fear. And thus is Religion also Panick."—London Mail.

Elastic Time Table.

In its early days railway traveling was a much less formal affair than now. One night, back in the sixties, the guard of the last train leaving Banff was reminded by an irate passenger that it was some minutes past the starting time. "Oh, aye," replied the man, "but Meester F. has a dinner party the night, and I'm jist gien' him two or three meenits' preveelge."—London Chronicle.

His Half.

A wife after the divorce said to her husband:

"I am willing to let you have the baby half of the time."

"Good!" said he, rubbing his hands. "Splendid!"

"Yes," she resumed, "you may have him nights."

He Objected.

Clergyman—Elmer, wouldn't you like to be a minister when you grow up?

Small Elmer—No, sir; I don't believe in working on Sunday.—Chicago New

The Roosevelt Dilemma.

Mr. Roosevelt, after many weeks having worked up his stage play, has theatrically announced formally his candidacy for the presidency. Nobody is surprised at this. It was quite plain two months ago he would do exactly as he has done. He has played for effect—an old customer with him—but the effect among many thinking people has not been what he desired.

Mr. Roosevelt, it appears to us, has made the one stupendous mistake of his life. We do not believe he can be nominated in the face of the powerful federal machine. If defeated for the nomination he will be the worst discredited public man in all the history of this country, if he puts a blight upon Taft's nomination by "steam roller" methods of his own, he will be hopelessly lost in the count next November. Yielding to an overweening ambition, he has put himself in a position to be destroyed.

The Taft people, we feel morally certain, will win in the Chicago convention. We gather his not only from Kentucky, but many other states. But the defeat of Roosevelt in the convention will only make more sure the defeat of Taft in November.

Our Republican brethren seem to be in a most deplorable condition.—Owensboro Message.

Bowling Green.

Dear Editor:

Please find space in the News for the following letter.

As I have many friends who are readers of the News and who are interested in education, I feel sure that they will be pleased to know something of the Western Kentucky State Normal and its work.

I arrived in Bowling Green Jan. 28th, and entered the Normal 30th, I found it to be composed of some 1500 earnest, honest, hardworking students, all working in harmony and for the same end.

We left Bowling Green at 2 p. m. on the date mentioned above, spent the night in Louisville and on the following morning went to Frankfort, arriving at 9:30 p. m. spending the remainder of the day in the Capitol and returning to Bowling Green in the evening.

The seven hours spent in Frankfort will be long remembered by the entire company.

Many interesting sights were seen and much information gained. Both the old and new Capitols were visited. Our presence was recognized by both houses of the General Assembly, and every member of the company had the opportunity of hearing an address by the Governor.

The magnificent Capitol was admired by all. It was universally agreed that it is one of the finest in the union.

THE ADAIR COUNTY NEWS

Published Every Wednesday

BY THE

Adair County News Company.

(INCORPORATED.)

CHAS. S. HARRIS EDITOR.

Democratic newspaper devoted to the interests of the City of Columbia and the people of Adair and adjacent counties.

Entered at the Columbia Post-office as second class mail matter.

WED. MARCH 13, 1912.

The Kentucky Legislature will adjourn this, Tuesday night.

Congressman Ollie M. James will likely preside as temporary chairman over the Baltimore convention.

As soon as the Governor signs the bill, all women in Kentucky over 21 years of age, can vote in school election.

The House Committee, last week, indorsed the State Board of Health and exonerated Dr. McCormack. The action of the committee is not altogether satisfactory.

Strange things happen. Mrs. Henry Noble, of Hazel Green, Ky., thirteen years of age, is the mother of a child. Its grandmother is just twenty-nine years old.

Bert H. Franklin, the former McNamara detective, told the grand jury that the money he used as bribes was given him by Clarence S. Darrow, attorney for the McNamaras. It seems that Darrow is in a bad box.

There is to be a new county in Kentucky, made from parts of Wayne, Pulaski and Whitley. It will be named McCreary. The county seat is yet to be selected. It will either be Whitley Station or Pine Knot.

The Republican State Convention, to select delegates to the National convention, will be held in Louisville, commencing Wednesday April 10. Four delegates and four alternates are to be named.

Adair county is now in the Eighth Congressional district, composed of the following counties: Adair, Casey, Lincoln, Boyle, Mercer, Anderson, Jessamine, Madison, Garrard, Shelby and Spencer.

The Kentucky House went on record by a vote of 57 to 22, as opposing legislation looking to the curtailment of free railroad passes. One Representative said he had been riding on passes for years and he did not care who knew it.

Mr. O. H. Waddle, a well-known lawyer of Somerset, is a candidate for delegate to the National Convention. He is an enthusiastic Taft supporter and says in his announcement that he is unalterably opposed to Col. Roosevelt. He further states I am for Mr. Taft because he opposes Roosevelt and the dangerous doctrine for which the latter stands.

Mr. W. A. Coffey, Chairman of the Republican Adair County Committee, has just returned from canvassing Cumberland, Clinton, Russell, Wayne and Casey counties; He says the Republicans in these counties are for President Taft almost to the man—that the Edwards and Powers factions are united and will give the present chief Executive an united support.

Ed Walton, who recently took charge of the Somerset Times, is certainly pleasing his readers. He is now issuing a Semi-Weekly, a splendid paper, and naturally his business is increasing. We believe that it will continue to grow, knowing that Mr. Walton will entertain his readers and will give his advertisers the worth of their money. We can not say how broad the smile this extra work brings to the faces of his compositors.

A little money changes the statement of a man who was almost shot to death at Atlanta, Ga. Eugene H. Grace, who was a prominent contractor of that city, was found locked in his room with a bullet wound in his breast. Upon being interrogated he said his wife shot him. The wife denied, and told her husband that she would revoke his power of attorney for her estate. He then recanted, and said he did not know who shot him. His life is insured for $25,000 for the benefit of his wife. He will recover.

My Trip to Burkesville.

March 6th, 1912.

Editor News:—

In company with 9 other brothers of the I. O. O. F., I left Greasy creek on the morning of February the 29th, on the steamer Bob Dudley, for Burkesville, to institute an Oddfellows Lodge at that place. The crowd was composed of 10 good looking oddfellows, to wit; the writer, M. F. Upton, D. C. Hopper, Attis McFarland, L. C. McKinley, E. W. Gloch, Dr. John Cowbest, J. C. Popplewell, W. H. Hopper and F. F. Cook.

We left Greasy creek at 8 o'clock on the 29th, arriving at Burkesville at 2 p. m.

Among the great scenes of nature along the great Cumberland was, first, Belk's Island, then the great bluff called the Pointed Rock, which of itself is grand scenery, and to see the great waters dash against this huge wall of rock, we were made to think who is controlling these things, "the Great I Am," and also our lives are under His control. We moved gently down the river for several miles till we reached the rock house, one of the grandest scenes our eyes ever beheld. Seeing that great bluff of rock standing there, and that large hole through it, large enough to drive a wagon and team through, and many interesting things along the river made our trip very interesting. At 12 o'clock dinner was ready on the steamer Dudley, the table groaning with good things to eat. You ought to have seen us going down after those delicious eatables. At 2 p. m., we arrived at Burkesville and a committee of Oddfellows met us and escorted us up to town to the Franks hotel. At 3 p. m., we met at the lodge hall, and began our work of instituting the lodge. At 5 p. m., we finished our work and adjourned till 7 o'clock, when we met at the hall for the purpose of conferring degrees. We conferred the initiatory degree on 14 candidates, also the first, second and third degrees. At 12 o'clock we had a few minutes recess, when a large basket of the most delicious fruits consisting of oranges, bananas, pears and apples were served, and all the brothers ate to their fill. This was a most enjoyable time. How pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity. The next thing that was done was the election and installing of officers of Burkesville Lodge No. 356 I. O. O. F. At 2 o'clock the work of installation was completed, and we all went to the hotel for a nap. On arising next morning as the sun was shining on the beautiful mountains, we were made to think that we were in one of God's best counties on Cumberland river. The next thing breakfast was ready, and we marched into one of the best laid tables I ever saw. All the good things of the market were upon it. After breakfast we took a stroll about the city, looking at the sights, for it was our first trip to Burkesville.

On Friday night March the 1st at 7 o'clock a banquet was spread at the hall where a large crowd of Oddfellows were assembled. A delicious supper was spread, the table reaching across the lodge room. When we were seated around it Bro. F. W. Leach invoked the divine blessing upon us. We then ate our fill, and the work of conferring degrees was in order. After this work was over there were some interesting recitations and talks by Prof. Popplewell, Dr. Combett, C. R. Hicks and Bro. Simpson, after which the Lodge closed, and we all went to our rooms. Next morning when we awoke and prepared ourselves for breakfast, the good women of the hotel Franks had the table loaded down to the ground with good things. We partook of most every thing set before us, and then it was time for us to take our departure to our respective homes in Russell county. Some came back by land, and some by water. We were very thankful to Captain Campbell for his kindness in bringing us up to Gossage Lodge, and for the good eatables furnished us while enroute up the river. No I am mistaken, we hailed Capt. Campbell and his boat at Burkesville, but he like the Priest abandoned us to our fate and passed on the other side. We are made to believe that the Captain has not learned the story of the good Samaritan, and also has not learned the divine lesson of humanity, or he would not have passed us by. We went back up in town, but wonderful to relate, a good Samaritan in the person of brother James Row, furnished us a rig, and with wraps to keep the keen, cold mountain winds from freezing us, sent us to Jamestown, and on our return trip we were made to think in the language of the Psalmist, David, surely "Goodness and mercy had followed us."

We will never forget the good people of Burkesville for their kindness and hospitality shown us while there. It was a moment of heartfelt joy when two hearts melted into one in a fraternal covenant. A brighter prospect for a good and prosperous Lodge I have never seen. This lodge is composed of the very best men of Cumberland county, such as C. C. Baker, C. R. Hicks, County Clerk Simpson, Circuit Clerk, Jones, and various other good men of Burkesville and adjacent country.

With the very best wishes for Burkesville Lodge and all the I. O. O. F., lodges in the 31st district, I am fraternally yours, Sylvester Harris, I. D. G. M., 31 Dist., of Ky.

Editor News:

We have had plenty of snow this winter, the snow has drifted so that the train could not run for two days. We only got our mail twice a week, but the News always came in on time.

I often think of my old Ky., home. I lived there until I was 30 years old, except two years, I spent in the West. I have lost trace of many of my friends and schoolmates. I would like to know if Andy and Woody Petty are living, also Mark Grider, John Earles and John Stewart.

Farm land sells from $100 to $150 per acre, a good team of horses from $400 to $500.

Last season was very dry here. Wheat was fine, some of my neighbors threshed forty-two bushels to the acre. The corn and oat crop were very light. Feed is high here, corn is 65 cts. per bushel, hay $15 to $20 per ton, potatoes $1 $1.25 per bushel, apples 50 cts. 75 cts. per bushel.

Well I hope many of my old friends will read this, especially Dr. U. L. Taylor and Col. Newt Coffey. I wished for Col. Coffey when I was shoveling snow for my wife to get to the barn to milk.

I was sorry to learn of Susan Rippetto's death, she was my cousin.

Mrs. Dicy Blair, is very sick, she lives with her son W. E. Simpson, she came from Gradyville. Mrs. Eliza Breeding has been quite feeble this winter.

You will find inclosed one dollar to pay for the News another year. It is a welcome visitor to my home. I will be eighty years old the 26th, of May.

Love and Pet Mother.

Take her withered hand in yours,
Children of her soul;
Mother's heart is craving love;
Mother's growing old.
See, the snows of many years
Crown her furrowed brow;
As she has loved and petted you,
Love and pet her now.

Lay your hand upon her head,
Smooth her whitened hair,
She's been growing old the while
You've been growing fair;
She has toiled and prayed for you,
Ask not why or how,
As she has loved and petted you,
Love and pet her now.

Take her withered hand in yours,
Children of her heart,
Mother's growing old; your love
Makes life's sweetest part.
Touch with love her faded cheek,
Kiss her anxious brow;
As she has loved and petted you,
Love and pet her now.

Take her withered hands in yours,
Hold them close and strong;
Cheer her with a fond caress,
'Twill not be for long;
Youth immortal soon will crown
With its wreath her brow,
As she has loved and petted you,
Love and pet her now.

Take her withered hand in yours,
This your heart will prove:
If you owe her any thing,
Pay the debt with love.
Press her in your strong young arms,
Breathe a loving vow,
As she has loved and petted you,
You will love and pet her now.

Mr. S. L. Bennett, who lived in the Fairplay country, died Tuesday morning of last week. He was fifty-three years old and had been sick for many weeks. He leaves a wife and eight children, three by his first wife and five by the second. The community is in great sympathy with the surviving companion and children.

It is now the 12th of March and no signs of winter breaking. It snowed all day Monday, and had the ground been dry it would have reached four inches deep. There is as much demand for wood now as there were in the dead of winter.

The Missionary services at the Christian church last Sunday were attended by a large audience, and was instructive and enjoyed. The offering for F. M. was the largest ever made by the church.

Editor News:

Please find space in your paper for a few lines from a Kentuckian, who is now located at New Richmond, Ind.

I like this country fine except winter months, it has been cold here this winter, colder than usual but I suppose it has been cold most every where. It is snowing here today but is not very cold. It seems to be a very healthy country. We have had good health all winter except colds.

This is a very level country, and not much timber. There are a few people who have the pleasure of burning wood, but not very many.

Sometimes my mind wanders back to my old home and I want to be with old friends very much. My home was in Cumberland Co., near Burkesville. I would like to hear from Bakerton and Beck's Store writes again soon.

EATS WHAT HE LIKES AFTER TAKING FREE SAMPLE

It will be welcome news to dyspeptics to learn of a remedy that, in the opinion of thousands, is an absolute cure for indigestion and all forms of stomach trouble, and, better still, it is guaranteed to do so. The remedy is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

We all know the value of pure pepsin in indigestion, and add to this some exceptional laxative ingredients and you have a truly wonderful remedy. Mr. T. W. Worth of Forsyth, Ga., got to the point where he could not even eat or digest vegetables and after many years of seeking he found the cure in Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Mr. Rudy Kasper of Moline, Ill., was in the same bad predicament with his stomach, took Syrup Pepsin and is now cured.

Hundreds of others would gladly testify.

It is a guaranteed cure for indigestion, constipation, biliousness, headaches, gas on the stomach and similar complaints. A bottle can be had at any drug store for fifty cents or a dollar, but if you wish to make a test of it first, send your address to Dr. Caldwell and he will supply a free sample bottle, sent direct to your address. You will soon admit that you have found something to replace salt cathartics, breath perfumes and other temporary reliefs. Syrup Pepsin will cure you permanently.

For the free sample address Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 402 Caldwell building, Monticello, Ill.

The American Canal.

Mr. Knox at Panama will have an opportunity to ponder on how the canal, built with American money by American engineers, can become an American canal for American ships. As matters stand to-day nothing is more certain than that the canal will carry the commerce of the world in great volume, of the world, that is, outside of America; or perhaps we should say that it will carry American commerce, when at all, in foreign bottoms.

It is a singular fact that our merchantile marine, all but a vanishing asset, has the slightest possible affinity for the South American trade, and it is very doubtful whether a free passage for American ships or preferential tolls for those of American register would stimulate the ship yards into an activity long since strange to them. Whatever may be the policy determined on it will be necessarily happen that foreign lines, assisted by subsidies, will be able to underbid the Americans in the freight market; that has been the avowed policy of the German Government, and, where mail contracts or auxiliaries to the navy are concerned, that, too, is the indirect practice of free-trade England. Subsidies are not favorably regarded on this side, nor do the advocates of preferential tolls seem to realize that these would, in effect, be a form of subsidization.

It certainly will seem strangely anomalous that this great American enterprise should benefit other nations far more than the United States, but a fair interpretation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty guaranteeing equal terms to all can hardly be strained to mean all except the United States. And, that being the case, Americans may as well become resigned to the gracious but ungrateful role of the benefactor. Louisville Times.

He deliberately stood at a faucet in the jail in which he was confined, and drank dipper after dipper of water until he fell in a stupor, dying a short while afterwards. This is a novel way of shuffling off this mortal coil and about the most inexpensive way we have heard suggested. Even pure water is a dangerous thing. A Wasted Life.

The other day we overheard a man soliloquizing and he was saying something like this: "Not long since I visited a cemetery and saw a tall and costly monument glittering in the sunlight, I knew the man who sleeps beneath. I wonder if in the world beyond the stars he found happiness. He certainly did not do so this side the meridian. He gave his strength in the chase for gold. His schemes by day and his dreams by night were of how he could increase his harvest. He never saw the sorrowful face of the widow in want nor heard the plaintive voice of childish hunger. The birds sang gaily in the tree tops, innocent flowers wafted their perfumes to him and the sunlight danced across his path, but he noticed nothing. The only music that he heard was the jingle of the gold as it dropped into his coffers. In the flush of his conquest and power he was stricken down, and now sleeps on the hill with the poorest. He left behind no legacy of kindly deeds, no cherished words of hope, no aching heart for a friend who has gone. His gold has built for him a monument of cold and pulseless granite that defies the moans of the wind as his heart defied the sobs of humanity. In the Democracy of the grave there is no caste, and I say that this man wasted his life as much as the rum-soaked pauper who sleeps in the potter's field a stone's throw away."—Blue Grass Clipper.

Salt is an essential item for the horse all the year round.

Always keep dirt, snow and ice out of your horses' hoofs. Keep the frogs clean if you want the animal to rest properly at night.

To allow a horse to become thin in flesh is throwing money away.

If horses are not working cut down their rations, they are like a human being and they do not require such heavy feeding when not working.

Look after the horses' teeth, they require attention when they get along in years. The ragged teeth should be filed off.

You must use some patience with your colts or you will not be successful with them.

Raise pure-bred stock, the scrub kind don't pay, and are not worth their feed.

A grain ration of corn and oats mixed and fed with clover hay is more valuable than a single grain ration of corn for producing large gains in horses. Clover hay fed this way is worth twice as much as timothy hay.

Children are much more likely to contract the contagious diseases when they have colds. Whooping cough, diphtheria, scarlet fever and consumption are diseases that are often contracted when the child has a cold. That is why all medical authorities say beware of colds. For the quick cure of colds you will find nothing better than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It can always be depended upon and is pleasant and safe to take. For sale by Paul Drug Co.

Gave Up Hope

"I suffered five years, with awful pains, due to womanly troubles," writes Mrs. M. D. McPherson, from Chadbourn, N. C. "They grew worse, till I would often faint. I could not walk at all, and I had an awful hurting in my side; also a headache and a backache.

I gave up and thought I would die, but my husband urged me to try Cardui, so, I began, and the first bottle helped me. By the time the third bottle was used, I could do all my work. All the people around here said I would die, but Cardui relieved me."

TAKE CARDUI The Woman's Tonic

For more than 50 years, Cardui has been relieving woman's sufferings, and making weak women strong and well. During this time, thousands of women have written, like Mrs. McPherson, to tell of the really surprising results they obtained by the use of this purely vegetable, tonic remedy for women.

Cardui strengthens, builds, restores, and relieves or prevents unnecessary pain and suffering from womanly troubles. If you are a woman, begin taking Cardui, today.

Prof. Sap Spradlen says the reason lead is so heavy is that there is so much of it in a small piece.

The post office will remain open at nights now until Poke Eazly gets through with the tale he started on day before yesterday.

Atlas Peck has sent word that if there is any way at all in which he can assist nature in bringing about the arrival of spring he will gladly do so.

The train into Tickville Tuesday morning was one day late. The delay was caused by the stopping of the engineer's watch a few miles beyond the Calf Ribs community.

Another Magic Lantern show played an engagement at the Wild Onion school house Saturday night. Among the views was a picture of Niagra Falls standing still.

The mail carrier is fooling his horse again. He has placed high wheels on the Front of his buggy and some low ones on the back axles. This makes the buggy travel down hill all the time and encourages the horse.

Luke Mathews has been summoned to Bounding Billows to serve on a jury in the trial of a fellow that broke into the post office. The officer serving the papers is getting up a Democratic jury, and the defendant will without a doubt be found not guilty, on account of the post-office now being in the hands of Republicans. Raz Barlow, our well-known fiddler, has concluded to settle down and will make an endeavor to save up some money between now and Christmas. He will begin to economize by using only two strings to his fiddle when he plays without pay.

The Presiding Elder has sent word that he will soon visit the Dog Hill church. Before he comes the church people will get together and strengthen the floor by cutting an additional foundation under it, the Presiding Elder being considered a big man in the church.

Columbus Allsopp, who decided some time ago to commercialize the lightning bug business by raising them to rent out during the summer months for lighting moonlight picnics, etc., has almost completed the work of stopping up all the cracks around his farm, and will soon be ready for the approach of the lightning bug season.

The Hogwallow Improvement Society walked down the road in a body the other morning to meet the Tin Peddler that has put Hogwallow on his circuit. A goodly number of our people who had never seen him went down the road to inspect him from ambush. The Peddler did not lose much time in Hogwallow but missed several articles of tinware.—Hogwallow Kentuckian.

wants to do it with. And this same woman, so exact in her doing, gets more time to rest and read and instruct her children in the paths of right and the social duty they owe to all. Ladies, we hope you are of this class, receiving the blessings of your husband, and the praise of all who know you.

"The old woman." A nice phrase to be using about the dear soul who kept her vigil over you in your infancy, kissed away your tears in childhood and remaining your trusted friend in maturity. Is this all the love you have for the silver haired mother who bathed your scorching brow all through the long sleepless nights of affliction, when your brain was wild with fever? Is there no other term you can find for her whose love has followed you through every trial, tribulation and misfortune of your life? Has mother, through all these years of labor, watching and waiting, been wasting her love on a worthless bunch of clay, who, in the rosy dawn of manhood has no other term more fitting than "the old woman" by which to address or speak of his mother?

Wheat Suffers From Cold.

The unusual severity of the weather during the past six weeks has done much damage to the late-sown wheat crop. While the wheat that was sown in the early fall has passed through the frigid period with little injury, the late sown that represents the major part of the 1912 wheat crop in this county, has suffered so materially that some believe that the yield will not reach more than 50 per cent. In some instances, Garrard county farmers will plough up the later sowing and plant other crops.—Central Record.

What Makes a Man.

Our idea of the component elements of the human body has heretofore been based largely upon the nursery rhyme to the effect that little girls were made of sugar and spice and everything nice, while little boys are naught but a clumsy combination of quails and puppydog tails. Hence it is a matter of surprise in this iconoclastic age, when old ideas, old idols, and old ideals are being smashed day by day—hence, we, it is a matter of surprise to find that this opinion of long standing finds partial

A German who specializes in the department of physiological chemistry has analyzed the material structure of man and a bright reporter has translated findings into language not beyond the comprehension of men. And what do they find?

Why that there is on the average $7.50 worth of crude material in men and woman. These materials are fats, phosphorus, lime, iron, sulphur, sugar, albumen and traces of a few other substances. There is $2.50 worth of fat in the normal human body; enough iron to make, say, a single nail; sufficient lime to whitewash a good-sized chicken house; enough phosphorus to put heads on 2,200 matches; a teaspoonful of sugar; enough albumen to make one hundred eggs, and enough magnesium to make a dainty firework. And then a pinch of salt to season the creation.

The German scientist is to be thanked for his research. He has left one of our finest rhymes with a leg of fact to stand upon. Henceforth, the fond mother may croon her lullaby, confident that she is not guilty of egregious nature faking while she is giving pleasure to her little one and to herself—Atlanta Georgian.

CAUSE AND REMEDY.

Uncertainty of the immediate future is looked upon by many men of affairs, as a blockade to enterprise and business prosperity, and this blockade is now quite apparent throughout the channels of trade.

The Presidential Election; the efforts of Congress with no fixed purpose; Organized Labor as a new factor in politics; together with other matters of greater or less import, represent at this time a chaotic conflict of separate interests, to harmonize which is now the problem before the country.

All want Prosperity, Peace and Unity. Read with care the Cincinnati Enquirer, a journal that prints all the news each day from every commercial center throughout the world. A barometer of causes and effects that points out, as a Beacon Light, the danger and the safeguard therefrom.

As well known, the Daily Enquirer is the largest in size and highest priced paper in the United States, yet cheapest, measured by quality and quantity.

The Weekly Enquirer, with the cream and digest of all the news, able and conservative editorials, market reports, methods and results from Government and State Experiment Stations, veterinary matters, People's Forum, choice literature, short and continued stories, non-sectarian sermons, general information, etc., with the exclusion of all matters of scandal and immorality, is today the Cleanest, Most Family Journal obtainable. Each issue is alone worth the price of a year's subscription.

Editors for subscriptions make handsome profit and increase the influence of The Enquirer in the uplift of morality and industry, and for the betterment and welfare of the community. For terms write to the Enquirer, Cincinnati, Ohio.
